Democrat Beaten by Republican in Rhode Island Race

Rumblings on Political Horizon of Change in American View

MISSISSIPPI VOTE

Hugh White, Wealthy Lumberman, Leading Four for Governorship

The first congressional district of Rhode Island elected a Republican to the house seat now held by a Democrat Tuesday, arousing a dispute as to whether this signifies a national trend against the New Deal.

White Takes Early Lead JACKSON, Miss.—(AP)—Hugh White, wealthy Columbia lumberman, held a lead of more than 600 votes over his two nearest opponents in the five-county race for the Mississippi Democratic gubernatorial nomination at 11 p. m. Tuesday with returns complete from 231 of the state's 1,638 precincts.

The vote, scattered in 54 of the 82 counties, in the governor's race follows:

White	5,794
Dennis Murphree	5,136
Paul B. Johnson	5,044
Lester Franklin	1,975
Dr. E. A. Copeland	247

These returns indicate that Senator Huey P. Long's influence in the election was slight. He was reported by his representatives to be supporting both Johnson and Franklin.

Franklin, who ran on a "share the wealth" platform said Long had supported him all through the campaign but Sol P. McCall, agent of the Louisiana Conservation Commission in charge of the Bioket office where fishermen's licenses are issued, said he was directed by Long to have his association support Johnson.

In the three-man race for lieutenant governor, the candidates were well bunched on returns from 115 precincts. W. W. Ramsey of Vicksburg, was leading with 2,600 votes ahead of Walter N. Taylor of Clinton with 2,391 and J. B. Snider of Senatobia, with 2,293.

Returns for other state offices were behind those of governor and lieutenant governor.

For secretary of state 88 precincts gave Walker Wood 2,214, Joe S. Price 1,373, Roy A. Arnold 985.

Attorney general, 88 precincts, Greek L. Rice 3,206, G. W. Hossy 1,361.

State treasurer, 88 precincts, Don C. Jones 1,099, C. H. May 1,095, Newton James 1,024, D. P. Ruff 679, A. N. Adams 306.

10,000 Ex-Relief Families "on State"

Hopkins Refuses Flatly to Extend Emergency U.S. Aid

Senator Robinson, Carl Bailey Lose Their Pleas in Washington

DEADLINE SATURDAY

Care of Unemployables Now Up to Their Own State Taxpayers

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Relief Administrator Harry Hopkins declined pleas presented Wednesday by Senator Robinson and Attorney General Carl E. Bailey that he make an exception to the national relief policy by continuing federal aid to Arkansas for its unemployables, who were turned back to the state by the relief administration last week.

The general deadline for the turning back of unemployables to the states is Saturday, August 10, and Arkansas is one of the 13 states in which prolonged federal aid is being discontinued.

10,000 Families LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—While conferences proceeded in Washington Wednesday on Arkansas' struggle to retain some measure of continued federal relief for its approximately 10,000 families of unemployables, state relief headquarters have out a recapitulation showing a federal expenditure of $49,137.50 in Arkansas for relief purposes since October, 1932.

State Relief Administrator Dyess, who has been in St. Louis attending an educational relief conference, returned to Little Rock Wednesday morning but declined to comment about the current confused relief situation in this state.

As matters now stand, the unemployables are to be transferred from the relief rolls to state responsibility August 10.

4 Training Schools LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—J. L. Bond, Arkansas director of the adult education program, and W. E. Phipps, state commissioner of education, said Wednesday on their return from the St. Louis educational relief conference that four training schools will be held in Arkansas for teachers who will serve as instructors in schools to be established through the expansion of the adult educational program.

The program comes under the activities of the state relief administration. The first school opens at Fayetteville Thursday, and the second will be held at Henderson State Teachers college, Arkadelphia, opening Monday.

Amazons Baden-Powell Sir Robert Baden-Powell, British Scout leader, who toured the camp site, was amazed at its completeness.

New U. S. Cruiser Damaged by Fire

U. S. S. Quincy Crippled by Blaze Before Leaving for Test Run

QUINCY, Mass.—(AP)—Fire in the engine-room of the recently launched U. S. S. Quincy was extinguished early Wednesday after a five-hour battle.

The deck plates of the cruiser were so hot that officials were unable to go below to determine the extent of the damage, but Fire Chief Sands said it would run high.

The 10,000-ton cruiser lay at the dock prepared for a trial run when the flames broke out.

THE NEW DEAL IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON. Bald-headed, bushy-bearded Congressman George Holden Finkham of Massachusetts strutted through the lobby and accosted Speaker Joe Byrns soon after the administration had taken its second bad defeat on the building company bill.

"Well, I guess we were right," Joe Byrns just grinned.

One observed no symptom of mental reservation in that grin, but was reminded that insiders are giving large credit for the administration's two "death sentence" defeats to none other than this same elderly Joe Byrns, titular administration.

To get such credit for the second administration in kicking is something of a distinction as it followed disclosures of "power trust" lobbying tactics which would be a bit too much except for unusually strong stomachs.

30,000 Boy Scouts to Meet in Capital August 21 for First National Jamboree

Whole World to Be Represented in Camp on Potomac

Boys to Be Housed in Quarters Sufficient for Full Army Division

SCOUTS' 25TH YEAR

30,000 Delegates Selected From Scout Membership of 1,000,000

By WILLIS THORNTON NEA Service Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON.—Along the historic Virginia hills across the river, where once the Lees and the Custises lived, and where blue-clad troops camped and marched throughout the Civil war, a city of tents and temporary wooden buildings is springing to life.

Though it is two weeks before the opening on August 21 of the National Jamboree which celebrates the 25th year of the Boy Scout movement, the Virginia shore of the Potomac from the Lincoln Memorial to Alexandria already begins to look like a campground.

Big mess tents, administration tents, shower houses, and the lines of troops and section camps are already laid out.

The gathering in late August of 30,000 selected Boy Scouts will be the biggest assembly of American boys ever held.

Great eight-inch watermains and extensive sewer-lines already run along the surface of the ground to carry water supply to a camp equivalent to that of a fully equipped army division. Extensive sanitary facilities already have been installed, and the building of wooden section and troop ice-boxes, nearly 700 of them, is almost complete.

These will use 25,000 pounds of dry ice in keeping fresh 15,000 pounds of meat, 30,000 quarts of milk, and 4000 pounds of butter the boys will consume every day of the week's "World's Fair of Scouting."

Amazons Baden-Powell Sir Robert Baden-Powell, British Scout leader, who toured the camp site, was amazed at its completeness.

Hopson's Trail Appears WASHINGTON.—(AP) For a tantalizing moment, congressional lobby investigators Tuesday picked up and then lost the trail of Howard C. Hopson, missing master mind of the Associated Gas & Electric System.

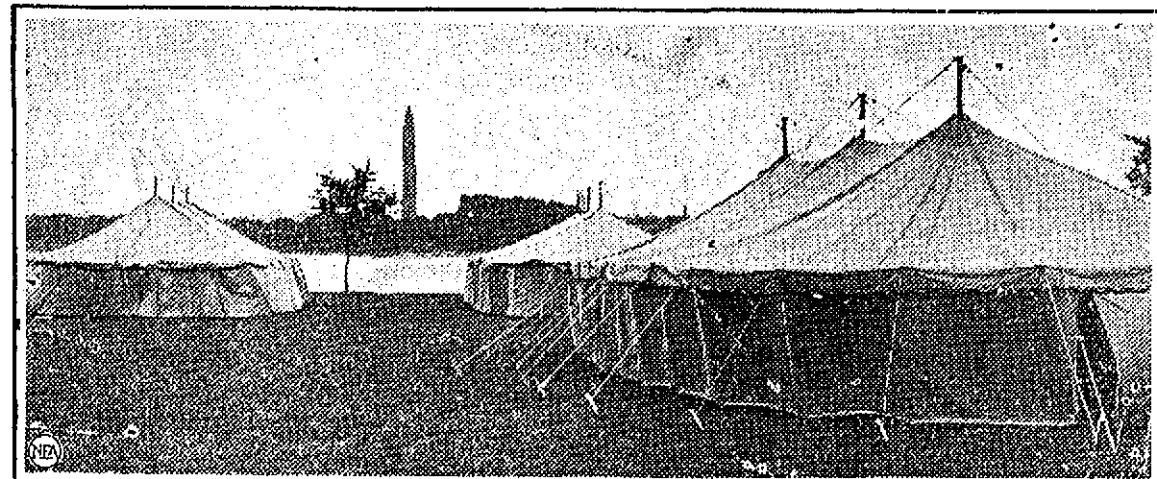

Agents for house and senate committee went from hotel to hotel in city race to be first to thrust a subpoena into his hands. For the first time the police were called into the search.

Toward sundown, house investigators played a bad hunch and descended on the mansion Virginia estate of Patrick J. Hurley, secretary of War in the Hoover cabinet, who received $25,000 for helping Associated Gas fight the utilities bill. Hurley, noted, however, that he had no family had been Hopson, he said.

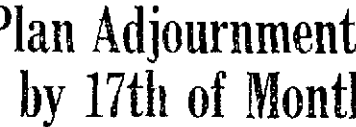

For consolation, the lobby hunters cherished only a vague hint that Hopson might appear voluntarily in a day or so.

Talked With Hopson Both the hint and the start of the day's hunt came from Bernard B. Robinson, who represented Associated Gas and Electric here in its costly fight against the administration utilities bill.

Plan Adjournment by 17th of Month

Borah Breaks Out With Attack on AAA Amendment Compromise

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Talk of congressional adjournment by August 17 became more insistent Wednesday as Republicans generally promised to cooperate with the Democratic leaders in speeding the new tax bill through the senate.

Passage of this measure is regarded as the key to adjournment.

Signs of a new controversy on the question of permitting suits to recover processing taxes appeared Wednesday when Senator Borah criticized the proposed compromise on the subject.

The compromise had been reached by conferees from the senate and house, named to reconcile differences in amendments as approved by the two chambers.

Borah declared the agreement amounted to a virtual nullification of an amendment the senate attached to the legislation.

In passing the AAA bill originally the house barred all processors for suing to recover taxes paid. The senate, however, permitted suits if the processor showed he had not passed the tax on to the consumer.

Wednesday 'Hottest'; Mercury Reaches 101

Popular opinion Wednesday afternoon that the thermometer had "blown a fuse" was confirmed when the Fruit & Trueh Branch Experiment Station reported the temperature to be 101 degrees at 3 p. m.—the hottest this year. The previous peak was a flat 100, established July 8.

Pipkin Battling Against Paralysis

Little Change Noted in Condition of Injured Stamps Swimmer

William Pipkin, 20-year-old Stamps youth, was battling for his life Wednesday in Julia Chester hospital, the victim of a broken neck which has caused paralysis from the chest down.

Little change was noted in his condition Tuesday, hospital attaches reported.

Dr. J. J. Kazar of Tehula, Miss. (Missouri Central railway surgeon, was rushed here to aid in the case. Dr. Kazar reported that the youth's condition was "very grave."

The youth was injured late Monday afternoon when he dived into a shallow creek near Stamps. He is the son of Mrs. Ethel Pipkin of that place.

Suicide Attempt Is Reported Wednesday

J. J. Beam, aged about 60, allegedly attempted to end his life early Wednesday morning by slashing his throat at his home on South Fulton street. His health was blamed.

Police Chief John W. Rodgill and city officers Ward and Bearden investigated. Unless complications arise, Beam will recover, a physician said.

Found Guilty by Jury of Women

Feminine Jurors Hard-Boiled in Municipal Court Liquor Cases

Two defendants were found guilty of violating liquor laws by women jurors in a short session of municipal court Tuesday afternoon.

Willie Smith was fined $25 and sentenced to 10 days in jail on charges of selling liquor without license. Notice of appeal was given and bond was fixed at $150.

Dolph Reed was found guilty and fined $50 on charges of selling tax-paid liquor and keeping liquor for purpose of sale. He filed notice of appeal, bond being set at $150.

In the Smith case, Mrs. Louis Breed acted as foreman. Other members of the jury were: Mesdames Charles Harrell, Ched Hall, W. E. Bryant, E. P. Young, J. R. Floyd, T. R. King and Dale Jones.

In the Reed case, Mrs. Louis Breed again was appointed foreman. Other members of the jury, all married women, were: Mesdames Charles Harrell, J. R. Williams, J. R. Floyd, Homer Pigg, L. W. Young and Lex Nichols.

In each case the jury deliberated only a short time.

Johnny Eubanks and Charles Green were acquitted on charges of assault and battery. They were charged with beating each other.

Concluding the session, Roy Johnson was given judgment for $25 in a civil suit against A. G. Williams.

Homer Adkins to Speak on Saturday

Will Address Hempstead Ginners at Hope City Hall at 10 a. m.

Homer C. Adkins, collector of internal revenue for the state of Arkansas, will be present at Hope city hall at 10 a. m. Saturday, August 10, to discuss the cotton control act for the benefit of the ginners in this and other sections of southwest Arkansas. It is expected that all ginners in southwest Arkansas will be present. (S. T. July 5, 1935)

Property Owners Warned to Correct Unhealthy Local Conditions

TO CHECK UP AGAIN

Board of Health Ordered to Report to Next City Council Session

Insanitary conditions in 59 residences and business houses throughout Hope were condemned in a report filed with the city council Tuesday night by J. W. Davis, foreman of the malaria control campaign under supervision of Dr. P. B. Carrigan.

The report flayed numerous open toilets, cisterns and leaky water connections. Filth of the worst sort existed in several places.

In one area it was found that several families were using a single open toilet. There was complaint of obnoxious odors, the report said.

In another section it was found that 22 families were using two hydrants. Leaky water connections and broken and insanitary toilets were found in many places.

Property Owners Warned The report said that property owners had been warned to make repairs and eliminate unhealthy conditions. Some owners refused to comply with the warning, the report further stated. A second checkup on the 59 condemned places will be made within the next two weeks.

The report was referred to the city board of health for further action. The board was requested to meet with the council at its next session and make a report on what progress had been made.

r. Davis said that the canvass required 28 men at a wage cost of $526.70. Inspections made totaled 808, in which 1,087 gallons of oil was used to eliminate breeding places of mosquitoes.

Report in Part

A portion of Mr. Davis' report follows: "I find a lot of bad conditions in Hope on account of open, old style toilets. Some places several families are using the same toilet. There is a lot of complaint about the odor. These are too numerous to list separately.

"I suggest to the board of health and the city of Hope that they apply for a RYA project to put the whole city of Hope in the water and sewer district. Projects of this kind have been put over in other towns.

"I do not know of a project that would be worth more to the city."

Proposed Elks Club Purchase A committee representing the Elks club of Hope Tuesday night proposed to sell the Elks building to the city. The committee was composed of E. F. McFadden, Syd McMath, Frank Trimble and Robert Wilson.

Financial condition of the club, coupled with a decline in the organization, was given as a reason for sale of the property. A figure of $5,500 was mentioned. The proposal was referred to the Board of Public Affairs without much discussion.

A refund of $3.75 was allowed Joe Green on beer license he had purchased from the city. Mr. Green asked for the refund when he installed domino tables, which eliminated sale of beer in the same place. Mr. Green also asked for a refund of $8.75 for purchase of state license, but the claim was not allowed.

A motion was made that street tax (Continued on page three)

Markets

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS.—(AP)—Losses of four to nine points were shown by active futures at the start of trading on the cotton market here Wednesday.

Lower cables and free pre-burent liquidations brought mild declines in new markets, but the volume of balicers held at a slow pace.

October opened at 11.33 and then reversed to 11.35, while December at 11.15, January at 11.13, and May at 11.07 were more than 25 cents a bale lower.

The market appeared to be still making time pending the government crop estimate and possible action on the 12 cent loan.

NEW YORK.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened barely steady, four to six lower under foreign and hedge selling and expectations of a favorable bureau report. October 11.39, December 11.21, January 11.17, March 11.12, May 11.08, July 11.04.

HOLLYWOOD GOSSIP

Stars' Tennis Match! Let's Have a Beer

HOLLYWOOD—It was a bright Sunday morning—at least everyone called it morning. Actually it was afternoon.

Scores of celluloid celebrities swarmed over the Harold Lloyd tennis court, all wearing funny paper hats and tooting tin horns. Signs galore announced a "championship" match between two of Lloyd's employees, Irish Joe Reddy, his prize agent, and German Roy Brooks, his trainer—few have been carrying on a tennis feud for weeks.

A blare of horns, announcing the match was about to begin, sent the crowd scurrying for final glasses of beer and then to seats on the sidelines. Harold, attired like a Swiss burgomaster, led the way to the court. Behind him followed the contestants, both wrapped up in sheets like Roman gladiators and wearing floral wreaths on their heads.

Just before the match, two servants marched solemnly on the court carrying a stretcher. Ann Harding, wearing a pointed green hat and oblivious of her ex-marital woes for the moment, led the cheering for this bit of sight. And Jack Oakie demanded to know whether the winner or loser got to ride off on the stretcher. He figured it would have a considerable bearing on the game.

Jack, by the way, almost made headlines. He drank orange juice all day long! Beer and lemonade also flowed freely.

Boos for the Referee

Mildred Lloyd, wearing Irish shorts and a German blouse, was so busy making sure nobody ran out of beer that the missed most of the game—but kept blasting with her horn just the same. Theodore von Eltz officiated as chief scorer and all around generalissimo. He was constantly booed for favoring one of the players. The spectators couldn't decide which.

Freden Ferguson came in late, having stopped at church and was wrecked her car. Fredie March was nearly assassinated when he walked right across the court in the middle of a game to replenish his beer supply. And Claudette Colbert nearly made both players dash for the stretcher when she offered to play the winner.

Savanny Joe finally copped first prize by taking two sets to towering Roy's one—the prize being a very useful household article.

After the match great quantities of food appeared with magic-like speed. And how the gang dove for it—that is everyone but Oakie and Sally Blane. Being on a diet, they confined themselves to a turkey sandwich and a glass of orange juice apiece. So far Oakie has lost 32 pounds and Sally four.

Lunch over, everyone retired to the blue tiled swimming pool—and then spent most of their time basking in the hot sun. Carole Lombard showed some real form on the springboard, though. And Ida Lupino nearly slipped in the pool, clothes and all, while running away from Harpo Marx.

Yes, he sometimes chases blonds in real life, too.

No Help From Above

When Joan Bennett's daughters, Diane and McIlinda, grow up, Joan would like to see them become actresses. But she declares she won't give them any help, doesn't believe in it. Joan made her own way in the movie world, even worked as an extra at first. And if her daughters follow in her footsteps, they'll follow from start to finish.

Won't Stay Down

There's a wide gap between an accordion player and a movie producer. But Frank Yaconelli bridged it once, and he believes he can do it again. Taking his entire savings amassed through years of playing an accordion in circuses, carnivals and vaudeville, Yaconelli produced 16 western "thrillers" in 1925-26. They were quite successful, too.

So he sank all of the profits into a big special. That was finished just as "The Jazz Singer" turned the movie industry topsy-turvy.

The producer couldn't sell his picture. So he dug out his accordion and returned to vaudeville.

Now he's back in Hollywood to do a specialty number in the new Burns and Allen film, "Here Comes Cookie." And he says he has just about enough money saved to try his hand at producing once more.

New Hepburn "Bob"

Katharine Hepburn is sporting a boyish haircut. In the first part of her next picture, "Sylvia Scarlett," she masquerades as a boy. And because she didn't think a wig looked right, she insisted upon having her own sandy tresses shorn. And now she really looks like a boy.

Chaplin Bows Out

Don't know whether Charlie Chaplin thought he was getting too much publicity or what, but anyway his picture has disappeared from its prominent place in Sardi's restaurant. And in its place is a brand-new sketch of Paulette Goddard.

Organized Labor Favors Ethiopia

A. F. of L. Appeals to President to Intervene to Stop War

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., (AP)—The American Federation of Labor Executive Council directed William Green Tuesday to appeal to President Roosevelt to try to stop the threatened Ethiopian war. The federation president said he would carry the appeal to the White House as soon as he returns to Washington from the council's quarterly meeting here.

"From all the facts and information available there seems to be no justification for a war of aggression on the part of Italy and for the invasion of Ethiopian territory," the council said in a statement. "The council is of the opinion that Ethiopian sovereignty should be respected, that the people of Ethiopia should be permitted to enjoy all their territorial rights and that under no circumstances should they be required to cede any part of their territory through treaty of invasion or through resort to force. The Executive Council will appeal to the government of the United States to utilize all influence at its command to prevent the threatened war between Italy and Ethiopia. Furthermore, the council directed that working people everywhere be called upon to protest against the war preparations of Italy and its threat to invade Ethiopia."

"The council was influenced to express itself in this threatened war situation not only for humanitarian reasons, but because of the grave international complications which might grow out of such conflict, all of which might seriously threaten the peace of the entire world."

Prior to the World war, chlorine gas was the only lethal gas used in the United States.

After hen eggs have been incubated four days in China, they are examined and the infertile ones are sent to market.

Radical Teacher Dropped by WPA

J. Austin Beasley "Fired" for Teaching Against the Government

LITTLE ROCK.—In the reorganization of the emergency educational program under the Works Progress Administration, now under way, there will be no place for J. Austin Beasley, workers education instructor in Little Rock, accused by relief officials of subversive teachings and spreading of radical propaganda among relief workers.

Officially, Beasley was let out along with nearly half of the 650 teachers in the other divisions, because he could not meet relief department qualifications of the WPA. That is, since he was not eligible for relief, he was not eligible to teach in the emergency educational program.

Actually, Beasley had aroused the ire of relief officials because they felt he was "biting the hand that fed him" by accepting government money and teaching, or at least countenancing the teaching of others, that the government is a failure.

Relief officials thought he was too closely associated with Claude C. Williams, former Presbyterian minister, who got a jail sentence in East Smith for inciting dissension among relief workers.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning

The liver should pour out two pounds of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile does not flow freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels, due to lack of your stomach. You get constipated. Your stomach and the world looks pink. Laxatives are only makeshifts. A more powerful movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes these good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "unwind up." Harmonious, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. workers and is now organizing the relief clients of Little Rock and other sections of the state under the name of Workers Alliance. Williams, who has started a school of his own called the "New Era School" at his home, 1003 High street, says he is financed by a liberal organization in the East.

Beasley was sent to Arkansas from a Texas training school along with Ward H. Rodgers, center of the Landlord-tenant disturbance in eastern Arkansas, and four women instructors. Rodgers was fired for his activity at Marked Tree. The women, two in Greater Little Rock, one in Arkadelphia and one in Texarkana, have been found eligible for relief and will be retained under the new set-up.

Republicans Pick Up Congress Seat

G. O. P. Takes Commanding Lead in Rhode Island District

PROVIDENCE, R. I., (AP)—The loss of a representative in congress faced the Democratic party Tuesday night as Charles F. Risk, Republican, led Antonio Prince, Democrat, in Tuesday's special congressional election.

With 69 of the district's 112 voting districts in Risk had 21,539 to Prince's 16,375.

"Suffered Beyond Words"

—but now she knows what Stomach comfort is again, with Gordon's.

From all over the country the letters come with praise for GORDON'S wonderful compound. From New Orleans: "After suffering beyond expression of words with gas on stomach for about a year, your wonderful GORDON'S COMPOUND was recommended to me by a friend. I purchased a bottle and much relief I have taken it or in bottle. Would not be without it."—Mrs. Ella Brown, 212 Jackson Ave., New Orleans. "I recommend Gordon's to anyone ailing from sour or gas on stomach, or bloating."—Alex. Linker, St. Louis, Mo. "Don't spend the rest of your natural life groaning with an upset stomach. Try GORDON'S for ACID STOMACH, INDIGESTION, GAS ON STOMACH, SORE STOMACH, HEARTBURN, BLOATING, DYSPEPSIA, and see for yourself! Take GORDON'S and eat what you like. Money back on first bottle if not satisfied."

Heavy Toll Is Taken By Arterial Disease.

Dr. Edward J. Stieglitz has estimated that from 7 to 10 per cent of all American men under 45 years of age have conditions of the blood vessels which cause them to show high blood pressure.

In other words, as I have explained previously, they are suffering from hypertensive arterial disease. After 45 years of age, the number is continually greater.

Women also suffer from this condition and their number is greater after 40 years of age than is the case with men.

Low blood pressure, or hypotension, is much less frequent than is high blood pressure. It is also much more frequent among young people than among older people.

It has been estimated that about 35 people in every 1000 under 30 years of age and above 17 years of age suffer from low blood pressure.

Some of the leading authorities with insurance companies say that about 140,000 people die every year in the United States from hypertensive arterial disease. Of course, many people with high blood pressure live a long time, but the insurance companies are so convinced that the presence of this condition is a definite menace to long life that they frequently refuse to insure those with very high blood pressure and they charge higher rates for those they do insure.

Increasing damage to organs involved in circulation of the blood is likely sooner or later, and probably sooner, to cause the death of the person concerned.

It is recognized that hypertensive arterial disease is a slow and insidious condition. The person who first finds that he is beginning to develop symptoms of this condition is not in any immediate jeopardy, but he should take the discovery as a warning.

If this condition is discovered in its early stages, a routine of life may be prescribed and treatment ordered that may stop the rapid progress of the condition and quite certainly will tend to alleviate the disagreeable symptoms.

The disease is persistent and does not, like some other diseases, tend to cure in any definite period of time if left alone.

Unless hypertensive arterial disease—or as Dr. William Brady would call it in one of his alphabetical notions, "H. A. D."—is suitably handled, it may cause the sufferer to be a partial invalid resulting from "H. A. D." hypertensive arterial disease are due to failure of the heart to carry on business of the increased work that it has to do.

About half of the people over 50 years of age who have incapacitated hearts have them as the result of high blood pressure. About one-fifth of all those with hypertensive arterial disease die from a stroke of cerebral hemorrhage or what most people call apoplexy.

NEXT: Accurate measurement of blood pressure perfected only in last 20 years.

A BOOK A DAY

It's Overdone, This Volume on Haiti.

It seems almost impossible that anyone could write a banal and unenlightened book about Haiti. Nevertheless, Richard A. Loedger seems to have accomplished just that in "Voodoo Fire in Haiti."

Mr. Loedger is an artist—and a very skillful one, too, judging by the black and white plates in this book—and he wanders down to Haiti to have a go at the romance and mystery of that much-publicized island. His book, which recounts his wanderings and presents a rehash of Haitian history, somehow manages to fall somewhat flat.

True, I think, is chiefly because he tells too hard. There has to be mystery and menace on every page. The picture must be awe-inspiring, steamy and hostile beyond imagining; the natives must be secretive and suspicious past the experience of mankind. Their voodoo rites must be more horrific and hair-raising than anything in the history of magic and religion.

You wind up by feeling—whether justly or not—that the author has been exaggerating everything.

That is too bad, for Mr. Loedger had the makings of a first-rate book. Haiti is a glamorous and mysterious sort of place, and it can stand a lot of description.

Mr. Loedger has a seeing eye and an alert imagination. He got into some odd places and learned some out-of-the-ordinary things. Properly wrapped up, his narrative would have made a very nice package indeed.

But as it is, you feel that his material is being puffed up beyond its merits.

Published by Doubleday, Doran & Co., the book sells for $2.75.

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

Baby Must Eat in Public—Nursing Is Urgent Regardless of Stares

A young mother writes: "Will you please tell me what to do about my baby? I have to take a long trip and must travel by bus. She is not a bottle baby, and I can't very well nurse her in public."

Possibly she has reached her destination by this time because the letter was long catching up to me. If so, I wonder whether the milk went hungry.

There is only one solution for the problem, of course. Nurse the baby. What is there about keeping a child alive that is so complicated? Nothing, that I can see.

Perhaps she was alarmed by the instance of the family in the Gallery of Congress. This mother was asked to leave, also her husband and the other children, because the baby fussed and she gave it nourishment.

No Privacy on Bus

Perhaps it would have been better in that stronghold of he-men for her to retire discretely to the more domestic environment of a restroom. But this other little body going to visit the old folks couldn't retire any place much on a cross-country bus, and bus stops are not scheduled for three-hour apart nursing periods. Imagine what would happen if there were six or eight babies aboard, all on different programs.

If a trip is still in the future, I advise her to reserve a seat near the back of the bus to insure greater privacy.

Right Dress Is Concealing

There are any number of styles of dress with deep bertha or flowing lapels that permit dinner time to be just nobody's business but that of mother and child. It takes a bit of ingenuity and managing, that is all. A light weight shawl or scarf helps out considerably.

There is such a thing as poor taste and good taste about everything, even keeping babies in their regimens. But at the same time, it is a queer public that will stare most willingly at the frank views offered on bathing beaches, but shudder with outraged modesty at a little baby being nursed.

The Afterwhites

When are they—the afterwhites? Luring us the lengthening miles of one lonesome highway. With the dew across the lawn. Stroked with eager feet for the way the hills and valleys are? Where the rifted wreaths of mist O'er us, tinged with amethyst. Round the mountain steep defiles? Where are all the Afterwhites? Afterwhile—and one intends. As be gentler to his friends—To walk with them in the bush Of still evenings o'er the plush Of home-familiar fields and stand Long at parting, hand in hand. One, in time, will try to take New resolves for someone's sake. And wear them the look that lies Clear and pure in other eyes—He will soothe and reconcile His own existence—afterwhile. Afterwhile—we have in view A far scene to journey to Where the old home is, and where The old mother waits us there. How we'll grow the dear old spile And the warm tears—Afterwhile. Ah, the endless Afterwhites! League on leagues, and miles on miles—Selected.

Cagney Scores in New Hit, "G Men"

Story of Government Operatives at Saenger Thursday, Friday

The leap from gangster to copper would not appear such a long jump for some players. But the last person one would expect to succumb to the cause of law and order is Jimmy Cagney.

Nevertheless, the one and only Cagney, tough guy of the movies, has turned Federal sluth in the First National production "G Men" showing Thursday and Friday at the Saenger, law high, as a member of the United States Department of Justice, he tracks down and eliminates the very type of character he has so often portrayed.

Cagney is still the tough guy—tougher even than he has ever been before.

Gregory Rogers, author of "G Men" built his story around the headlines that have been chasing one another across the front pages of American newspapers for the last two or three years. He was inspired by the heroic deeds of the G Men—the government men who have knocked the very foundation out from under gangdom—and he gave the title "G Men" to his scenario.

Jimmy Cagney got the role of "Buck Davis," a tough guy from New York's East Side who throws overboard a meager but promising law practice to become a G Man and exterminate the gang responsible for bringing to an untimely conclusion the life of his college chum, Eddie Buchanan (Regis Toomey) who went straight from law school into the Secret Service.

Sales Taxer Holds Lead in Kentucky

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—(AP)—Thomas S. Rhea, 43, veteran of many Kentucky political battles, clung to his lead Tuesday night over A. B. (Happy) Chandler, 37, lieutenant-governor, in their race for the Democratic nomination as governor. A majority is required for nomination.

Rhea had a plurality of 5,436 over Chandler, who dubbed Rhea "Sales Tax Tom" and demanded repeal of the state sales tax.

All of the state's 20 counties were represented in the tabulation which showed Rhea 121,588; Chandler 116,152; Frederick A. Wallis, 25,094; Elan Hadley, 8,856; and Bailey P. Wootton, 1,601.

Rhea and Chandler will fight it out in a run-off primary September 7 for the right to oppose Judge King Swope of Lexington, the Republican nominee, in the gubernatorial election November.

Texarkana Closes Transient Bureau

Hundreds Scatter as U. S. Discontinues Daily "Handout"

TEXARKANA.—Hundreds of transients left Texarkana Tuesday night for parts unknown. Some traveled on foot while others hitch-hiked or stole rides on freight trains. Early in the evening they could be seen on almost every street in the downtown section.

The reason for the sudden exit was the closing of the transient hotel across the alley from the Texarkana, Ark., police headquarters. During the past few months this building was filled with men and boys each evening. Monday night it was open. Tuesday night the doors were locked.

The door leading to the local transient bureau headquarters on Hazel street was open Tuesday night but a large painted sign over the door announced to every one passing by that it was "closed." Persons seeking free meals and room as a donation from the federal government were told this service had been discontinued in Texarkana.

Critics were received here to the effect that the transient bureau was to close on August 1 if it possible and not later than August 10 if it took until that date to clear the buildings and send all equipment to places where it might be used by the federal government. The dormitory remained open until and including August 5 but the doors were locked on August 6. All forms of transient assistance here will terminate on or before August 10.

Dr. P. B. Carrigan made a motion that side walks in the business section be washed at least once a month. It was pointed out that tobacco and snuff juice occasionally covered the walks. The motion was referred to the fire and hose committee.

A proposal that South Walnut street, beginning at Ninth and running to Sixteenth street, be graveled and water and sewer mains layed was made before the council. Funds for this was suggested through a WPA project. The council asked for figures showing cost and plans be submitted at the next meeting.

The fire and hose committee recommended the purchase of approximately 300 feet of new hose. The matter was referred to the Board of Public Affairs.

City Treasurer Charles Reynerson filed his monthly report which showed a bank balance of approximately $5,000.

Plan Adjournment

He told the house rules committee that he talked briefly with Hopson Monday night at the Shoreham hotel, at which slept Chairman O'Connor.

Democrat, New York, of the committee, ignorant that the much wanted witness was so close, Robinson said he did not know where Hopson might be Tuesday morning.

"And," he added, "if you want to know what I think—I don't think it makes any difference anyway."

But committee members were not listening to his added remark. They were making out a warrant commanding Hopson's immediate presence.

Clyde Tavenner, committee investigator, was dispatched to the hotel to serve it.

Meanwhile, there was a burst of activity in the headquarters offices of the senate lobby committee. A subpoena in his coat pocket, Herbert Blomquist, the senate group's chief investigator, took out for Shoreham.

Reporters were there first. Tavenner crossed the finish line five minutes ahead of his senate rival. Tapping at a few windows behind which the house committee agent thought Hopson might be, procured not even an answer.

Inquiries at the manager's office brought replies that Hopson had not been registered. Blomquist called his office, then dashed out of the hotel, leaving Tavenner standing bewildered.

THE NEW DEAL

his chairmanship of the interstate commerce committee, wouldn't be having much luck with important bills in the future.

Three times Byrns was quoted—he says misquoted—as disparaging the Wheeler-Rayburn bill or its chances. And by the time Democratic Whip Paddy Boland of Pennsylvania—who gets his orders from Byrns—had expressed opposition, the big Democratic majority in the house began to get the point that its leaders wouldn't crack down in case it succumbed to pressure from the "power trust."

O'Connor Also Rebels

Floor leader William Bankhead, father of the celebrated Tallulah, has been ill all through the session, which is why Chairman John J. O'Connor of New York—Tammanyite and brother of the Basil O'Connor, who was paid $25,000 by Associated Gas & Electric—has been functioning as majority leader.

O'Connor has opposed the administration at every turn during the holding company fight, which about made it unanimous for the leadership. Consider the case of O'Connor, which also involves some secret history:

When Byrns and Rayburn were fighting for the speakership, O'Connor offered to line up with Rayburn if he could be floor leader. Rayburn would have none of that, declaring his preference for John McCormack of Massachusetts. O'Connor then became rules chairman in a three-way deal with Byrns and Bankhead.

O'Connor didn't like that much, nor later reports that the administration, because of Bankhead's protracted illness, favored election of Rayburn as floor leader, to strengthen its house machinery.

In short, O'Connor had no strategic or sentimental reason for helping Rayburn and plenty of reason for playing along with Byrns.

Byrns Firm in Saddle

It's most extraordinary when the entire House leadership deserts the president on an issue, but not hard to understand if you know why.

You can hear plenty of loose talk about the possible administration attempt to supplant Byrns as speaker, but it will continue to be just that. If anything were needed to show that the administration couldn't get away with it, the second vote on the holding company bill provided the evidence.

Byrns has done more favors for members than any other speaker with in memory and there is more soreness in the house about "executive interference" than at any other time since Roosevelt took office.

Spring Hill

John Momen and family of Kilgore were visiting home folks here Sunday. Henry Stanfield of Fordyce, Ark., visited his cousin Mrs. Arch Turner and family recently.

Mrs. F. J. Hill spent Monday in Texarkana.

Misses Joy Sinyard and Orene Martin were dinner guests of Maydell Dain Sunday.

Mrs. Cleveland Foster is very ill, we are hoping she gets better soon.

E. J. Brint was visiting his son, Harriett and others here this week.

The Methodist protracted meeting will begin here the 18th of this month. Mrs. Florence Armstrong is spending her vacation with homefolks, J. C. Turner and family.

Willard McDowell had a tooth extracted recently and his jaw is giving him a lot of trouble, he was in the hospital for a few days.

Midway and Spring Hill played ball here Saturday, the game resulted 5 and 4, in favor of Midway. Spring Hill won over Roston here Thursday afternoon.

W. E. Smith and family were over from Texarkana Sunday visiting Toho Phillips and S. B. Smith.

Joe Ross and family and others of DeAnn attended the funeral of Mr. Ray last week.

Why don't they hold the Democratic convention and the Communist convention together, and save money?—Senator Huey Long.
